

Paul shakes Uniline manager's hand at the warehouse

Paul celebrates his 42-year career at Uniline Australia

It's not every day you hear about an employee who has worked their entire career at one company. EPIC participant Paul began his career at Uniline Australia in 1979 and today celebrated his retirement after 42 years at the company.

Paul, who has Asperger's, joined the Uniline team when he was 17 years old and has become a staple of the workplace and fountain of knowledge.

Paul's long-term employment success

Creating inclusive and healthy workplaces

Here at EPIC, we strive to lead by example. This month, we're sharing stories from our own staff about how their lived experience with disability and mental health and their passion for helping others is shaping their work.

Rachael: ADHD is my strength, not a barrier

What do you picture when you imagine someone with ADHD? Is it a young boy, unable to sit still in class?

No two people with ADHD are the same, and Rachael, one of our EPIC Employment Consultants, is sharing her experience as an adult female with ADHD to raise awareness.

Read Rachael's story >>

EPIC consultants talk mental health and work

Mental illness can affect anyone at any stage of their life.

As part of Mental Health Month, we chatted with some of our mental health consultants to learn why they are passionate about their job, the role employment plays in your mental health, and their advice on how to better support mental health.

Start a meaningful conversation >>

EPIC Assist
Phone: 13 EPIC (13 37 42)
Email: hello@epicassist.org
Web: epicassist.org
Donate: fundraising.epicassist.org

EPIC logo

